Strathcona Gardens Gets a Fresh Look

Campbell River, B.C. – Strathcona Gardens Recreation Complex has launched a new, interactive website at strathconagardens.com. The new site has improved functionality, is easier to navigate and is mobile friendly.

On December 15, additional functionality will be added to the site, allowing users to register for programs and courses online, make facility bookings and purchase memberships.

“This new site provides much more information for facility users, is easy to navigate, and starting shortly, will allow users to register for programs and make bookings without having to pick up the phone. There is always something interesting and fun happening at the Gardens, but we weren’t always able to share these events effectively with the public through our old web page. The new site is really a one-stop-shop for the facility,” says Facility Manager Koreen Gurak.

Strathcona Gardens Recreation Complex has been the area’s main recreation complex since its construction in the 1970s. Each year the facility hosts hundreds of programs and courses and has thousands of registered guests and members come through its doors.

“We offer a large variety of different lifestyle, fitness and recreation programs at the Gardens, but we are also an important venue for community events, tournaments and concerts. This facility is a vital and vibrant part of our region and I am happy that our website now reflects that energy,” added Gurak.

For more information about upcoming programs and events and to view the new site, please visit strathconagardens.com.

Regional District is a partnership of four electoral areas and five municipalities providing approximately 43,000 residents with 55 services including a full-service sports complex, parks, liquid and solid waste systems, fire protection and emergency preparedness programs.
